

ADAM E. WEINACKER

Shareholder

BIOGRAPHY

Adam Weinacker is a shareholder whose practice focuses on litigation and appeals.

Adam strives to achieve cost-effective, sensible solutions for clients. Where litigation is necessary, Adam focuses on implementing core strategies to lead clients through trial and appeal.

Over the course of his legal career, Adam's litigation practice has cut a broad swath, but primarily has been focused on litigation involving real estate and business transactions. Adam's real estate litigation practice includes representing homeowners and lenders in property disputes, defending foreclosure actions and resolving liens. Adam also has represented businesses with large real estate holdings in the Park City area to form litigation strategies. Adam's business litigation practice has encompassed, among other things, disputes involving loan defaults, class actions, the sale of businesses and claims of breach of fiduciary duty.

As a member of the firm's appellate practice group, Adam has practiced before state and federal appellate courts. Before joining the firm, Adam served as a law clerk for Judge Scott M. Matheson, Jr., of the United States Court of Appeals for the Tenth Circuit and for then-Chief Justice Christine M. Durham of the Utah Supreme Court.

Adam is a graduate of the University of Utah's S.J. Quinney College of Law, where he was editor-in-chief of the Utah Law Review, was elected to the Order of the Coif and graduated in the top 5 percent of his class. Before pursuing law, Adam was an editor for newspaper publications in California, Montana and Minnesota.
